

War. He looked at that tablet every time he visited the battlefield.

R. L. Gaetz was in favor of a monument. He would build it on the corner of Ross and Gaetz Avenue—a figure of a soldier in full marching order, with something to remind us every day of what those boys had suffered for us.

Mayor Lord agreed with what Mr. Gaetz had said, but would prefer seeing the monument on the corner of Rev. Brown and the postoffice.

Col. Page explained that his amendment was only to get the matter before the committee. He said that if they built a memorial, it would be in the shape of a building or a monument.

T. A. Gaetz said all he wanted to do was to do all he could towards the idea of a memorial, whatever form it took. He thought we ought to get together and combine the two motions so we could get something to work on. He would do all in his power to get the memorial built.

Dr. Collinson said our first duty was to the men who had given their lives; second, to those who had returned,

Dr. George was one who had lost a son in the war, and he felt much in this respect. We must at least do that much for our brave men who have gone west.

After some further discussion, it was finally decided to withdraw both motion and amendment before the meeting, and the following motion by Messrs. T. A. Gaetz and Pamel, was carried unanimously:

Whereas it has been the desire of the citizens of the city and district

Therefore be it resolved—that this meeting of the citizens of the district hereby agrees to undertake to organize and carry out a thorough canvass of the provincial riding of Red Deer to secure the necessary funds to erect a suitable monument on the city square as a tribute to the men who have fallen, and further to provide a community hall for the benefit of the men who have been permitted to return to their home and country, and that the neces-

An organizing committee was appointed, consisting of T. A. Gaetz, Rev. Brown, R. L. Gaetz and R. B. Welliver, to carry out the wishes of the meeting, and with power to add to their number.

Executive of National Athletic Club Says Tanlac Put Him Back on His Feet

"No, Sir, I don't want any other medicine in the world but Tanlac for I don't believe there is another one that can compare with it," was the statement made a few days ago by Cory A. Hesse, of 743 Candide St., Vancouver, B.C. Mr. Hesse is a popular salesman for the American Furniture Co. at 1058 Gravelle Street, and is also manager for the National Athletic Club and has a number of years been one of the most highly respected citizens of Vancouver.

"For the past three years I had been troubled with indigestion so bad that I practically lost all my appetite," Mr. Hesse continued, "and half the time when I came home to dinner all I cared to eat would be a piece of bread. It seemed that nothing would agree with me, and gas would build me up and cause my heart to palpitate so bad that I could scarcely get my breath. My back bothered me nearly all the time, and the pains were so bad that often I would have to walk right slow, and at times I have had to put both my hands on my hips trying to straighten up, and even then I could hardly make it. Why, I was almost impossible for Tanlac to stoop over and pick up anything off the floor. I couldn't sleep well at night, and as I could not get strength or nourishment, I felt tired and weak all during the day."

"So many people of Vancouver were taking Tanlac and praising it so highly that I made up my mind to give it a trial. Like the others I am now ready to give it my unqualified endorsement, for four bottles have not only overcome all my troubles, but they have added ten pounds to my weight and put me back on my feet feeling fine. My appetite has come back, and everything agrees with me and, in fact, I can hardly get enough to eat, for I enjoy my meals for the first time in three years. The pains through my back have completely disappeared, and I am able to stoop over and straighten back up without an ache or pain. My sleep is sound and restful and I get up of mornings feeling just fine, and I am stronger than I have been in years. Tanlac is the medicine for me first, last and all the time."

Tanlac is sold in Red Deer by Gaetz-Cornett Drug & Book Co., by the leading druggist in every town.

TROUBLES OF A TRACTOR AND HOW TO REMEDY THEM

(T. Lightfoot in Farmers' Advocate)
A tractor working in the fields needs quite a bit of care to keep up its power, as its loads are generally too heavy to pull at a slight loss of power.

I give here a few tips on keeping back up and close to the tractor.

When the engine lacks power, look for the following causes:

(1.) Valve out of time, adjust them to the thickness of a thin card.
(2.) Carburetor not adjusted right. Too much gas will choke the engine. The best way to adjust a carburetor is when the engine is warm look at the color of the flame. A red flame is too much gas and not enough air; a blue flame is too much air. The color of the flame can have a yellowish tinge for a correct mixture.
(3.) Water in carburetor, or gasoline tank makes the engine sluggish. Drain carburetor once a day to overcome this.

(4.) The valve may stick or the springs may not be strong enough. Make it a habit of putting a few drops of kerosene on the valve stems once a day and you are sure to be free of this trouble. Use nothing but cylinder oil on valve stems as other oil may burn and carbonize them badly. To keep the engine from losing power you must use the right kind of cylinder oil. Not the way most of the farmers do, just buy any kind of cylinder oil for their tractor. Get a chart of recommendations and select the correct grade for your tractor, the best oil is none too good.

(5.) If the engine is still sluggish, with the valve adjusted right and the mixture is right, the trouble will be in the ignition system. Spark plugs dirty or not adjusted right. Adjust the gaps to 1/32 of an inch. The magnetos can only be put in, the timing smooth and adjust to 1/4 inch of an inch. The wires may be short circuited; look for defective wires and replace them with new ones. If wiring is O.K. take off distributor from magnetos and clean as it may be dirty and worn. If worn, take 60 sandpaper and sandpaper it smooth all around; also look in the carbon brush, if worn, file it smooth, as this makes a motor miss at full speed, it is not as smooth as the spring, but strong enough to ensure good contact with the distributor.

A weak wet spring makes a motor miss also at full speed, so keep these two parts well cleaned to ensure a good ignition. Use nothing but Three-In-One oil for the magnetos. Other oils gum too much for magnetos. Also keep impulse starter or magnetos clean and well oiled with Three-In-One oil. This keeps the impulse starter free from rust and from sticking, and also ensures easier starting of the motor. When this starter does not work right, the speed of the armature is retarded and the magnetos will generate too weak a current for starting the motor. You will likely blame the magnetos, when the trouble is with the impulse starter. Keep the impulse starter clean, as a slight wear of the insulation of the wires will let part of the current pass through it and give a weak spark at plugs. When the magnetos are in good condition and the spark plug still foul, you are using too thin cylinder oil or your piston rings are worn and let the oil pass the piston in the combustion chamber.

This fouls the spark plugs and you blame the magnetos. Put in new rings and grind the valves at the same time. Be sure to get the rings in the cylinder with the slots right or the compression will still leak past the piston rings and

EVERGREEN

The evening of April 9th was very much enjoyed at the Gaetz School, when Mr. and Mrs. James Leighton gave their wedding dance and supper, which was a great success. The supper was one of the best ever served at any wedding or social entertainment in this district. The wedding cake was a beauty, and surely was a credit to the baker, both in taste and appearance. The five dozen new aluminum cups arrived on the scene in good time. After supper we had the pleasure of two songs by Mr. Ed. Merrigan and Mrs. C. C. Record. Then a solo twosome by the bride and groom under the glare of the new gas-light which illuminated the building to perfection. Everyone had a good time and the bride and groom were leading the cheer. The music was good, the new maro drum, piano and two violas turning out music that was very much appreciated. If all the congratulations and good wishes which were bestowed upon the happy pair prove successful they should live into the next century.

Someone back in the corner was telling about a long winter that lasted all summer about sixty years ago. The snow stayed all summer, and the only crop that was raised was about two acres by a settler who shoveled the snow off a patch and built a fire all over it, and when the ground was warm he sowed it and raised two acres of corn. Sixty years ago is a long time. So we did not argue the matter with the party, but came to the conclusion that the harvest must have been Paul Bunyon and that must have been the winter that he lost the blue ox.

Miss K. Menros, teacher at Gaetz School, and Miss J. Mason, from Knowledge, returned on Friday's train after attending the Teachers' Convention at Calgary.

Ed. Merrigan came near having a serious accident on the railroad crossing near Benalto, when the cast shoeing of his sleigh crippled the horse and before he could get his load removed the westbound train came around the bend and carried away his hind bob and part of his load. The horses broke loose from the sleigh, and ran away unhurt. Mr. Merrigan was shaken up a little but came out very lucky.

If your engine overheats, look for the following causes: Mixture not right, or spark retarded too far, fan belts slipping, tighter belt; radiator washed, clean up with a mixture of kerosene and water. Put a few pounds of kerosene in the water, let it dissolve and put in the radiator, run engine a while with this water in radiator, then flush out with clean water. If it still overheats, the pump is not working right, or radiator is plugged with mud, which retards the flow of air. Clean core so the fan can draw the air through thoroughly. Unsuitable cylinder oil overheats the engine. Carbonized cylinders and combustion chambers also cause overheating. Overloaded engine, working too hard, dirty spark plugs, water flow retarded, or not enough water in the radiator.

Mixture too lean or too rich, clutch slipping, piston rings stuck in the grooves, governor not working properly. Keep governor clean and free from dirt, and be sure that it is adjusted to the correct position. To the other side, when it opens it for more gas and air. Adjust it so it is straight up and down, when the engine stands still. If it can close it to the opposite side the engine loses power as it shuts off the fuel instead of increasing it. When an engine runs all right for a little while and then pops through the carburetor and stops, this is a sign that the fuel pipe is clogged and the gasoline cannot pass through fast enough—clean it out. If the engine pounds and gives a sharp metal knock, and stops, it is a sign of premature ignition, which is caused by incandescent soot or carbon, or from a piece of porcelain from a spark plug that has broken off and is in the cylinder. The best way to clean out the cylinder is to clean out the carburetor. Premature ignition makes an engine stop and its power altogether. If it is cooled off a little while you can start her again, but it will only run three or four minutes and then stop again. This happens only in a very badly carbonized motor. The only remedy is to clean out the carbon from the cylinder and cylinder heads. Carbon is formed from too much cylinder oil, or too rich mixture of fuel, and also from the dusts that are drawn through the carburetor. It is very important to keep the air washer full of water, or air cleaning device in good order. It pays you in the long run.

If engine is hard to start, look for the following causes:

Stale gasoline, a weak spark or spark plugs dirty or wet, or carbonized spark plug connections at plug oil or dust, valves out of time; magnetos breaker points pitted or dirty, too much gasoline or not enough, batteries exhausted or short-circuited or terminals dirty, or too much oil in cylinders, or engine too cold. Intake manifold with a blow torch, but be sure to drain carburetor first, and the gasoline in the carburetor will catch fire and cause an explosion. Heating the manifold makes a motor start a lot easier, as the gasoline vaporizes when it strikes the hot manifold. This also keeps the plugs from getting wet with raw gasoline. Use your prime your engine for starting, always prime it a few minutes before starting. This gives the gasoline a chance to vaporize a little and makes starting easier also.

A weak wet spring makes a motor miss also at full speed, so keep these two parts well cleaned to ensure a good ignition. Use nothing but Three-In-One oil for the magnetos. Other oils gum too much for magnetos. Also keep impulse starter or magnetos clean and well oiled with Three-In-One oil. This keeps the impulse starter free from rust and from sticking, and also ensures easier starting of the motor. When this starter does not work right, the speed of the armature is retarded and the magnetos will generate too weak a current for starting the motor. You will likely blame the magnetos, when the trouble is with the impulse starter. Keep the impulse starter clean, as a slight wear of the insulation of the wires will let part of the current pass through it and give a weak spark at plugs. When the magnetos are in good condition and the spark plug still foul, you are using too thin cylinder oil or your piston rings are worn and let the oil pass the piston in the combustion chamber.

This fouls the spark plugs and you blame the magnetos. Put in new rings and grind the valves at the same time. Be sure to get the rings in the cylinder with the slots right or the compression will still leak past the piston rings and

WHEN THE GIANT HAND FALLS.

Writing in McClure's, Richard Washburn Child predicts that something is going to happen in the United States—a miracle, in fact—the organization of the middle class for protection. He calls the middle class the Giant Hand, which has the power to seize control.

He first defines the class as follows: This class contains the unorganized laborers who outnumber, many times to one, those who can or will be organized; it includes the farmers, the small manufacturers, the little business men, the salesmen, the clerks, the professional men, the doctors, lawyers, priests and clergymen, it is the superintendent, the captain, the lieutenant, the office force, and the great body of sweating workers who run our national life. Compared with this body the organized cohorts of capital and labor now appearing so mighty, are a negligible minority with feeble fingers. It is the "Middle"—the Citizen Class—that owns the used Giant Hand.

I have an idea that the Giant Hand will be used in America. It will be used to bid farewell to the fear of profiteer or Bolsheviki.

There are reasons—aren't there?—why the Giant Hand should be used? How long will the Citizen Class stand abuse?

If you belong to the Citizen Class—the class that works, but never says, "If you don't come across I'll put you into chaos"—you have probably been doing a lot of thinking about the way the contents—caused by the available of one or the other of the two better advertised classes of capital and labor—may be putting you and your America over the hump.

For instance, you know that our dollar has shrunk. Where you bought four of something for a dollar once, you now get only three for a dollar, or two or one.

What did it? One of all of three things did it.

1. Profiteering.

2. The using up of resources and man-power, and the upset of orderly progress in production caused by the war.

3. Higher wages.

You are sure of the last; the high wages in fields of production are a distribution of facts. You are sure of the second; we can't throw down materials into the yawning mouth of war and still have them. As to Number 1, your suspicion, right be around the very fact that "the killings" have been so keen. You probably know it; who have not been explained; piles that cannot be explained on the ground that "he actually deserved it." The man who has been at corporation, who has built up a big business over a long period, deserves a reward, or a bribe, who works faithfully with his hand and is thrifty, deserves it, or a professional man who works with his head and contributes to the good of the world deserves it.

Furthermore, you are sure that higher wages do not account for all the high cost of living, because the cost of living has jumped faster than wages.

But you are sure of all that you, of the Citizen Class, must bear the heaviest burden. Your income has stood almost still. You haven't had the salve of increased income that labor has had. Organized labor passes a part of its load up to capital, and capital, and again, in its quiet way, passes the load to you by charging up to you in prices the wage increase. And you, with your wholly unorganized Citizen Class, face the H. C. of L. without having contributed to its rise and without having taken from it any loot. When prosperity is passed around you are not offered any. And you, with your tote the heavy end of high prices and high wages you do most of the toting. You have probably thought also that when the aid of Government is sought, it is only organized forces like labor and capital that go to Congress and get results. Not you and your Citizen Class—it is unorganized. You have the Giant Hand; but it's idle. You are the majority; but you don't count for much. You can remember the way organized capital used to write parts of our tariff law and the ease with which organized labor put through the Adamson Bill. If either added to the cost of living, you are the man who paid. While people are still talking about the rule of majority, organized minorities walk away with the power, and a handful of radicals can set us quivering.

There are reasons—aren't there?—why the Giant Hand should be used? How long will the Citizen Class stand abuse?

If you belong to the Citizen Class—the class that works, but never says, "If you don't come across I'll put you into chaos"—you have probably been doing a lot of thinking about the way the contents—caused by the available of one or the other of the two better advertised classes of capital and labor—may be putting you and your America over the hump.

For instance, you know that our dollar has shrunk. Where you bought four of something for a dollar once, you now get only three for a dollar, or two or one.

What did it? One of all of three things did it.

1. Profiteering.

2. The using up of resources and man-power, and the upset of orderly progress in production caused by the war.

3. Higher wages.

You are sure of the last; the high wages in fields of production are a distribution of facts. You are sure of the second; we can't throw down materials into the yawning mouth of war and still have them. As to Number 1, your suspicion, right be around the very fact that "the killings" have been so keen. You probably know it; who have not been explained; piles that cannot be explained on the ground that "he actually deserved it." The man who has been at corporation, who has built up a big business over a long period, deserves a reward, or a bribe, who works faithfully with his hand and is thrifty, deserves it, or a professional man who works with his head and contributes to the good of the world deserves it.

Furthermore, you are sure that higher wages do not account for all the high cost of living, because the cost of living has jumped faster than wages.

But you are sure of all that you, of the Citizen Class, must bear the heaviest burden. Your income has stood almost still. You haven't had the salve of increased income that labor has had. Organized labor passes a part of its load up to capital, and capital, and again, in its quiet way, passes the load to you by charging up to you in prices the wage increase. And you, with your wholly unorganized Citizen Class, face the H. C. of L. without having contributed to its rise and without having taken from it any loot. When prosperity is passed around you are not offered any. And you, with your tote the heavy end of high prices and high wages you do most of the toting. You have probably thought also that when the aid of Government is sought, it is only organized forces like labor and capital that go to Congress and get results. Not you and your Citizen Class—it is unorganized. You have the Giant Hand; but it's idle. You are the majority; but you don't count for much. You can remember the way organized capital used to write parts of our tariff law and the ease with which organized labor put through the Adamson Bill. If either added to the cost of living, you are the man who paid. While people are still talking about the rule of majority, organized minorities walk away with the power, and a handful of radicals can set us quivering.

There are reasons—aren't there?—why the Giant Hand should be used? How long will the Citizen Class stand abuse?

If you belong to the Citizen Class—the class that works, but never says, "If you don't come across I'll put you into chaos"—you have probably been doing a lot of thinking about the way the contents—caused by the available of one or the other of the two better advertised classes of capital and labor—may be putting you and your America over the hump.

WORLD'S BROTHERHOOD

A Wonderful Address To Be Given Next Week.

The citizens of Red Deer will have a unique opportunity on Tuesday, April 27th, when Sir Richard Winfrey, M.P., formerly Secretary of Agriculture to the British Government, will speak in the Presbyterian Church, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Canadian Club, the subject of Brotherhood as understood and propagated by the World's Christian Brotherhood Federation. A great congress was held in London in September last in connection with this movement, which was attended by 276 delegates, representing 20 different nations. The congress won a larger recognition from the British press than any similar gathering in the last 30 years. A notable feature of the meeting is found in its personnel. On the platform were Lord Robert Cecil, Prof. Gilbert Murray, Mr. Arthur Henderson and others occupying similar positions in the affairs of the world. Amongst those who delivered addresses were the Bishop of London, Dr. John Clifford and Rev. F. B. Meyer. But perhaps the crowning glory of the meeting was the address of the Prime Minister, David Lloyd George, in which he discussed the world situation and pointed out the necessity of confidence and good-will in all grades of society, and among the nations. The Federation works on the belief that the trust and troubles of the world, social, industrial and international, are due to lack of brotherhood amongst men, and accept as its task a share in the reconstruction of the social, international and church life upon the foundations of brotherhood. That this is the only solution we have been repeatedly told in this day by the leading statesmen of the world. It is along these lines that Sir Richard Winfrey will deliver his message. Although the movement proceeds on broad Christian principles, it is under the auspices of no particular church or denomination. Every man who approves the principle of brotherhood may find a place in it, and a hearty invitation is extended to every man in the city and district to attend the meeting. The message is primarily addressed to men, but the ladies will be cordially welcomed, and it is hoped many will attend.

KING TO TOUR ENTIRE WEST DURING JUNE

Ottawa, April 15.—It is understood that Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, is to tour the entire west at the close of the present session, beginning his trip about the second week in June and going as far as Victoria, B.C., and working westward.

Western supporters of the government declare that he cannot hope to gain more than half a dozen seats at the most.

There is also talk of the government followers urging a similar move on the part of the cabinet ministers, and it is likely that the plans for a tour of the west by one or more cabinet ministers, which was signed off before the opening of the session, will be revived.

NEWS WEEKLY SERMON

By Rev. G. D. Armstrong

And he gave some apostles; and some prophets; and some evangelists; and some pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of ministering, unto the edifying of the body of Christ—Eph. IV, 11-12.

Some one has defined a university as "Mark Hopkins at one end of a log and a student at the other." Similarly we might define a church as Jesus in the midst of his disciples, and the function of the church has been expressed by the Master when He said, "Ye are the salt of the earth; ye are the light of the world and set forth the influence of the church as leaven, hidden within the measures of man (the entire lump be leavened)."

As salt, the disciples were to have that quality of character which would sweeten and preserve society; as light their life and conduct would enlighten and instruct others. The work of the church was to be carried on not for its own glory but for the service of mankind.

Placed in an environment that was not divine, its saving influence was to be exerted, silently, steadily, persistently, until the whole order of life should be transformed.

It is the function of the church to express the divine life in mankind till man, in all his relationships, is brought into harmony with the will of God.

As the life of humanity is manifold, so must the work of the church be adjusted to meet its varied need, and many different forms of service must be used in the furtherance of its task. When we come to see that religion relates itself to the whole life of man, with clearer intelligence, broader sympathy, we shall recognize that all forms of service which minister to human need are vitally related to the Kingdom of God.

When one abaseth himself from the public service of the church, he causes his brethren to suffer, for as he is a minister of the word, he is a minister of the Kingdom of God.

The work of the church must be unified if its mission is to be successfully accomplished, its work properly done.

We have had enough of a Protestantism that emphasizes individual convictions at the expense of fundamental unity. All over Christendom, the lines are converging and the work of the church is being unified. We cannot doubt that the movements for unity will slough the obsolete accretions of the past and unite the religions of the world so that humanity shall become one flock, under one Shepherd. In the words of Rev. John Clifford, "It is a well known fact that the most forward-looking minds that nothing matters as much in life as the meeting of mind with mind for a face-to-face conference, to exchange ideas, to discuss and frame policies for common service to each other, to try to see whether it contains anything but dust or has in it a germ of abiding life; to bring together the various points of their different experiences and outlooks, to canvass facts, sift them, set them in their true logical relation to one another, and evolve the one and only true line of action." The church must unify its own life that it may see clearly the issues which confront us in the complete conditions which now obtain and that it may be able to produce the atmosphere in which alone our difficult industrial, social and political problems can be effectually solved.

The great determining factor in all life is human personality. We must raise up a race of well born men—we must "perfect the saints"—"Saints not of the painted window, but of the market and the shop; saints of industry who will humanize trade and commerce. Saints of the church, who will translate religion to service, and saints of social reform, outside of the churches, full of faith and of venture and strong in the conviction of the final triumph of righteousness." Saintliness is a synonym for health of body, mind and of soul. It is not a mystical experience of fanatics but a wholesome spirit in all life.

The church is not a one-man institution, but man men of many minds must together and work for the common cause, the bringing of all mankind to see the truth as it is, in Christ Jesus, and to the possession of His spirit of service, of sacrifice, and of love.

There are two principles which are laws of God's universe: The principle of unity and the principle of evolution—of growth and development. The satisfactory way of life can be found which ignores these principles. We are members one of another, and stand or fall together. "Great hearts grow one, in the world's work."

"Lest We Forget."

WE need to be reminded quite as much as to be informed. Memory has been jocularly described as "the thing we forget with." Out of sight is apt to be out of mind.

An advertiser who relies on the memory of the public leans on a broken reed. The absence of its advertising from the newspapers has been the beginning of the end for many a firm. "The present suit-or hath ever the advantage over the absent lover."

A business that has achieved its magnitude or strength as the result of faithful advertising plays itself false if it suspends or ceases its advertising, on the grounds of economy. It is poor business vision which fails to see the principal feeder of business, and fatal judgment which cuts it off or interrupts its flow. Economies may be warranted, but they had better be effected in any other department than in the sales department—the department of revenue. Any course which shoves your customer back from you or hides you from your customer is ruinous. The man with the money needs to be constantly sought. Advertising is the great discoverer of new customers, the great retainer of old ones.

If you forget the public,
the public will forget you

RED DEER'S 1920 FAIR

At the meeting of the Directors of the Red Deer Agricultural Society at the Manager's office on Saturday afternoon there were present, Mrs. Bjorkeland, Mrs. Stone, Messrs. McKinnon, chairman; Welton, manager; Bjorkeland, Veiliver, Whitehouse, McPherson, Stone, McEwan, Hogg, Galbraith, Gammie, Walde, Eggelkrut, McColl.

It was decided to take three shares of $5 each in the Horse Association of America, and pay the dues of $5 a year for three years. The Association may make a grant for 1920 Fairs. The headquarters are at the Chicago stockyards.

It was decided to have one of the Fair Institutes of 1920 devoted to silos and silage. Mr. Whitehouse to give a paper. If the U.F.A. will enter into a joint meeting, as Mr. Whitehouse was to give this paper to the U.F.A. Alberta Aircraft, Edmonton, would give special aerial battle flights and manoeuvres at the Fair, and take up passengers. Referred to Attractions.

It was decided to renew membership fee in the American Trotting Association.

An account of the Office Specialty Co. for filing cabinet, $15.25, was passed.

Mr. Bjorkeland reported that he had procured 5 tons of wheat straw at $15 a ton. Mr. Bjorkeland had bought for the Fair to go south to save cattle. They might have to use his shavings for bedding.

The report of the Prize List committee was presented and discussed at length. The report was adopted.

Messrs. Galbraith, McPherson and Gammie were appointed a committee on Special Prizes.

Mr. Alex. Galbraith, Superintendent of Fairs and Institutes, advised that the Government would pay the customary equivalent for membership fees for the current year provided the two Institutes meetings are held.

Messrs. Botterill, Hogg, Bjorkeland and Whitehouse were appointed the Attractions Committee.

It was decided that, instead of appointing an Executive Committee, that the President, First Vice-President and Manager have authority to act in case of any emergent matter, and that the balance of the Fair business be handled by the Directors.

TO MAKE POTATO FLOUR

Arrangements have been made in Great Britain for the establishment of mills for the production of potato flour, which it is hoped will be on a large scale.

Before the war there were 500 potato flour factories in operation in Germany. The present estimate is that there are now over 2000 there. The British ministry of food has for some time been conducting experiments in potato flour, as there has been an over-production of potatoes, and the flour will provide a means for the consumption of the over-supply.

The two principal provinces where tobacco has been successfully grown for many years are Ontario and Quebec. Very successful results have been obtained also at Kelowna, in the Okanagan district of British Columbia, and the growing of tobacco may be said to be firmly established as an industry there. Recent experiments in the Lethbridge irrigation district in Southern Alberta, would indicate great possibilities for the growth in the prairie province.

Tobacco, in Ontario, is grown in the counties of Essex, Pelee, Kent, Prince Edward, Elgin, and Lincoln. A total of 9,226 acres among these counties was devoted to the cultivation of the tobacco plant in 1919, producing a yield of 10,709,400 pounds, or an average of 1,150 pounds per acre.

The Burley variety, suitable for chewing, is grown in five counties: seed leaf in Essex; snuff in Kent; and Havana in Lincoln. Maryland tobacco has been introduced into Prince Edward County with success.

During the past few years the growing of bright tobacco (blue cured) has extended rapidly on the light sandy loams near the shores of Lake Ontario, and some growers with good drainage. The annual production of this variety is nearly 1,000,000 pounds, and in certain demand increasing. A limited amount of Seed Leaf and Fire cured leaf of the heavier type is grown in certain sections. The cost of cultivation in the province, including the labor of the grower has been estimated at from $50 to $75 per acre, and the average yield about 1,300 pounds per acre.

The increased demand, and higher prices of recent years have given tobacco growing in Ontario a considerable impetus. The provincial Board of Agriculture, realizing this, has done valuable work in proving species of plants adapted to the various soils of the province, and encouraging limited production and improvement in quality rather than a large acreage and mediocre quality by improved methods of culture.

The rapidity with which men's vision that is, of any elasticity whatever, widened and broadened under the pressure of real human need.

The Aftermath of Action

(By Henry Chas. Suter)

"Y"

Occasionally we hear—not a few scathing remarks about the laxity and frivolity at the front, appertaining to this particular real need of the men. Y adopted a similar view point, and fitted its programme accordingly to this particular real need of the men. Of course religious sentiments here might get in the way of the "sing-song," and doubtless some think it should, but if it did and thwarted the end, well then it belted the name, and it was demanded that it should dispense with such an order of service on account of "principle," then that action quite evidently would be a grim and cruel shame.

In short the Y did not think they had to prepare the souls of those boys for heaven, neither did they think that these souls were seeking an escape from hell, but the Y certainly determined that, at all costs, they would help to keep the boys happy, safe and well, to tide them over their troubles and dangers and to send them home, if spared, to their own people, calm and unshaken.

What were the circumstances of such so-called laxity? If we consider a few things we might agree that such circumstances extenuate and even alter the case demanding such laxity if we choose to call it so. The boys came to the base Y out of the trenches and their souls were filled with a passion for things not rough, harsh or cruel, not even of their soldier life. They wanted change, rest, recreation, and, yes, even to dance, and they wanted the Y girls for this and no others. For it must be remembered that others were near, for where soldiers are, there you will find the "wild women," the cabaret and dance hall, and drink. The Y knew all this, and hence made it a matter of religion almost that while ready to drop with weariness after a tremendous day's work, never to admit fatigue while a hobo-nalled trench had had a flicker of fancy to dance left in him. In truth the qualifying factor in such conduct was that the Y knew where the men would wander and the Y in its programme was thoroughly persuaded that the means justified the end. The Y girls helped to hold the men with their never flagging gaiety and friendliness and gentle manners, and the soldiers often would not respond to the women of the street when they knew they could go to the Y and meet a clean, sweet, friendly girl, who was there to help him obtain the solace he sought. Further, the Y knew their job, and whatever happened, it was to serve the boys, not to discipline them; they got enough of that elsewhere, and one of the happy marvels of the war was the rapidity with which men's vision that is, of any elasticity whatever, widened and broadened under the pressure of real human need.

Again it was this fact that broadened out the Y idea of religious service for the men, and while not of the conventional kind of service, the "sing-song" was more favourable to them than the regular church service. They were not thinking a great many of these things that we might imagine they thought of when face to face with death, neither were they atoned as much as we are. So the Y adopted a similar view point, and fitted its programme accordingly to this particular real need of the men. Of course religious sentiments here might get in the way of the "sing-song," and doubtless some think it should, but if it did and thwarted the end, well then it belted the name, and it was demanded that it should dispense with such an order of service on account of "principle," then that action quite evidently would be a grim and cruel shame.

MY LADY NICOTINE IN CANADA

Tobacco culture in Canada is an industry of comparatively recent date. Extensive development has taken place in the past twenty or thirty years, and recent seasons have proved the adaptability of widely separated sections of the Dominion to this very profitable line of agriculture. Since the protective duty of 25 cents per pound has been imposed on all foreign leaf tobaccos, the Canadian industry has received a yet greater stimulus, and interest in the culture is becoming wider and more diversified yearly.

The two principal provinces where tobacco has been successfully grown for many years are Ontario and Quebec. Very successful results have been obtained also at Kelowna, in the Okanagan district of British Columbia, and the growing of tobacco may be said to be firmly established as an industry there. tobacco at from 30 to 40 cents per pound. The purchase of tobacco according to quality has greatly improved methods of cultivation and treatment.

The growing of tobacco in British Columbia is practically confined to the area surrounding Kelowna in the Okanagan Valley. The total 1919 output, which amounted to about 120,000 pounds was sold at 20 cents per pound to a Quebec manufacturer. Interest in tobacco production in the Pacific province is on the increase, and in many sections of its area can be found warm, sunny, well-drained slopes of sandy deposits well adapted to the cultivation of tobacco plants of the heavier type.

The possibility of, successfully growing and curing tobacco in Southern Alberta has been clearly demonstrated by the experimental farm at Lethbridge. Sixty plots, grown in the season 1919, produced profitable foliage, which was cured on the farm and made into cigars. Experiments will be carried on a more extensive scale with a view to establishing the industry as a commercial proposition in the irrigation belt.

The successful growing of tobacco calls for rich and light soils containing a good supply of vegetable matter, and will yield the best results. Soils deprived of humus, however, rich in mineral elements, are not suitable for its growth. Good drainage of the subsoil water is essential. The soils of hill-sides, with a gentle slope, generally give excellent results, mainly on account of the rapidity with which an excess of water drains off. The best soils for successful growing are those which contain a sufficient proportion of clay and humus to enable them to retain a good supply of moisture, known as "loamy soils." Silt clay soils are the least suitable.

THE MAN WHO WAITS UNTIL HE HAS TO BUY COAL BEFORE BUYING IS MANAGING BADLY

He ought not to manage any part of his business in that way. And buying coal is part of a man's business—a rather important part. No man is a good provider who leaves a sort of uncertainty in the home about the fuel supply. Buying "in advance" of actual needs is always possible—and always good business. We want a chance to serve you with your coal.

ONTARIO LABOR IS OPPOSED TO BONE-DRY LAW.

Toronto, April 15.—Opposition seems assured in the legislature to the McCreary resolution, which calls for a referendum on the question that it is not government-introduced business, and as for present indications, a good deal will be made of this point by those who will take exception to the motion.

Hon. Howard Ferguson, leader of the Conservatives, stated today it had not been decided what the party would do as a unit.

The Telegram in the news column today says:

Labor men are determined that they will not stand for "bone-dry" legislation during the present term of the legislature.

"They gave the government fair notice of this at a U.F.A.-Labor caucus at the parliament buildings this morning."

HIGH SCHOOL PROMOTION REGULATIONS

Under the new regulations of the Alberta Department of Education, Grade IX and Grade X promotions are to be based on the judgment of the High School staff as to the pupil's fitness for promotion.

Recommendations to the Department of Education for promotion will be made on the basis of candidate's work during the year, regularity of attendance, ability, attitude and physical fitness.

About May 17 a list will be published, giving names of those in Grades IX and X recommended for promotion without further examination; also the names of those who must write final school examinations in one or more subjects. These examinations will commence on or about May 25.

All students failing at the final school examinations in any subject are required by the Department of Education to take the Departmental Examinations in all compulsory subjects of that grade. These Departmental Examinations commence June 21.

Grade XI and XII students will, as in previous years, take the Departmental Examinations commencing June 21. W. S. BRODIE, Principal.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD

The Red Deer Public School Board met on Monday evening with Mr. Gaetz, chairman; Mr. Welton, secretary; Mr. Payne, Mr. Stephenson and Principal Brodie present.

The following accounts were ordered for payment: Western General Electric Co., $12.41; National Conference (Education) reports, $5.00; Smith Lumber Co., $16.00; A. J. Kildwell, $23.57; Red Deer Advocate, $6.50; Red Deer Magazine, $9.00; Day Hardware Co., $20.30; Gaetz-Cornett Co., $42.70; Red Deer Tent & Mattress Co., $19.25; A. C. Ryke, $1; Best Furniture Co., $43.30; Miss Eva Irving, $5.40; City of Red Deer, $25.50.

Mr. Sheen, Mr. Fowler, Miss Ebert and Miss Crowell will be the committee from the Teachers' Alliance to meet the Board on Monday, April 23, to discuss the salary increases for 1920-21 asked by the Alliance.

The Board is planning for a uniform classification in the insurance to cover the school buildings and contents. The Board proposes to put $65,000 on the Central and High Schools, $4,000 on loose chattels, $5,000 and $300 on North Red Deer school, $5,000 and $500 on South Red Deer; $1,000 on Parish Hall furniture. Mr. Stephenson and Fire Chief Taylor will inspect the fire extinguishers for the Parish Hall. The Board will try and arrange for playground at Parish Hall.

THE LEGISLATURE AND THE CITIZENS

(Edmonton Bulletin)
The Calgary Albertian rises to remark:

"The plot in the Alberta legislature to cut out 80 per cent. of the women and 25 per cent. of the male vote in Edmonton in order to elect the present mayor, is a rare compliment to the strength of the present mayor."

But, on the other hand: The legislature put through a "plot" to exactly do it in Edmonton. But what it started to, but failed to do, in Edmonton? Obviously the mayor of Edmonton was "stronger" in the legislature on Saturday than he was with the ratepayers of Edmonton on the following Monday.

In justification of his action in the legislature in helping to hand over the lives, property and good name of the citizens of Edmonton to the tender mercies of the present mayor and his gang, the editor of the Albertian asks: "What kind of a city council does Edmonton have?" The answer is that Edmonton has just the kind of city council that under all the circumstances might be expected under the franchise provisions imposed upon it by the Alberta legislature. The present mayor boasted during the last civic election that with the help of fourteen agents he had been able to add five thousand names to the voters list. Given the power to add names to the voters list at will and almost any mayor ought to be able to re-elect himself. The fact that he has a thousand votes ahead of his ticket is ample evidence that his agents worked systematically and effectively in manipulating the voters lists to ensure his election.

It was surely fortunate for the taxpayers that the legislature had prorogued on Saturday. Otherwise no doubt the Council would have held an emergency session on Monday night, and on Tuesday the legislature would have executed the mandate of our "strong" mayor by validating the defective bylaws in spite of the adverse votes. That is the Albertian's idea of municipal home rule.

M. D. OF HAYS NO. 338

Little's account, and that they cannot now hold us responsible for the $55 which they say is still owing on the Watson casket." Carried.

THE FATHER OF ALL FOUNTAIN PENS

A fountain pen made in 1864 is still in use in Paris. It was patented that same year by Jean Benoit Mallat, an engineer, and the firm that still carries on the business founded by him asserts that this was the first fountain pen ever made.

Mallat was the inventor of the gold pen with the ruby point, perhaps the earliest writing and most durable nib ever put in the market. It is necessarily expensive. In 1843 Mallat substituted Iridium as a point for his pens. At the same time he provided a reservoir for the ink. This was the germ from which grew the idea of storing ink in the barrel.

Mallat's fountain pen differs only slightly from our modern ones. It was self-filling, but the flow of ink was regulated by a little turn-screw on the side. This, however, was soon given up, as it became clogged.

It would be interesting to know what was the date of the earliest patent on a fountain pen in America or England.

When in town call at our warehouse and examine the many desirable features of the IMPROVED COCKSHUTT DRILL. This drill is convertible from lever lift to power lift, for use with horses or tractors, equipped with eveners, poles and neckyoke, or with Engine Hitch as desired.

If you purchase an Improved Cockshutt Lever Lift Drill, and later you desire to add the Power Lift Attachment with Engine Hitch for Tractor, you can do so; or if you wish to add it for use with horses, you can do so, as it eliminates the work and stopping at the end of the field to lift the discs or shoes out of the ground or to put them in again.

It has a large sized Grain Box, and lids of box are metal covered. The feed device is known as the Fluted Force Feed, and is positively the most satisfactory.

It is made in different sizes up to the 12 foot size, and can be equipped with double discs, single discs, or drag shoes, all interchangeable. It will pay you to investigate the merits of this Drill.

Advices People to Cure Constipation Without Drugs;

Suffered Ten Years, Well in Three Weeks by Internal Bathing.

Did you ever hear of a person being cured of chronic constipation with the non-drug method? The time has come, but larger doses are usually necessary from time to time. Nature's own cure, just pure, sterilized water, administered with the J.B.L. Cascade, is the only scientific and permanent treatment. Baste internally.

Mrs. A. McLeod, Middleboro, B. C. writes: "I have suffered from constipation, and for the last year I became a wreck. I had awful pains in my back, severe headaches, indigestion and swollen limbs. I tried all kinds of medicines and many doctors without permanent benefit. It was an act of Providence that I saw the J.B.L. Cascade advertised. The first time I used it I felt relieved, and in three weeks was completely cured. My habits are now quite regular, and an in-bath treatment I have not needed. I am very thankful to be doing my own work again."

The J.B.L. Cascade is the perfect invention of Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York for internal bathing. It is now being shown and explained at The Gazette-Coronet Drug & Book Co., Ltd.

Please or ask them for free booklet all about it—or write Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College St., Toronto.

Passing of the Old Homestead

Who that was born in the country has not deplored the passing of the old homestead into other hands? The Pulaski Democrat expresses the feelings of those who mourn the passing of the old homestead in the following touching sentences:

Great stretches of land and expansive structures may pass from one owner to another and we take only passing interest in such transactions, but when the "Old Homestead" goes out of the family ownership we think differently. It is as if a part of ourselves had been taken away.

It may have been for years. It has been a great pleasure for many years to keep in the family the old homestead. It may have been a farm, or it may have been a village or city dwelling, that was the home of some childhood and youth and afterwards the place where they turned to for comfort and refuge. It was the familiar faces and life for a short time among the scenes of their life. The house has many sacred memories.

The rooms were each crowded with pictures. The room where father and mother slept, the room where the sisters and brothers slept and the room where the guests were given the hospitality of the old home; the kitchen, the pantry, the cellar and the hall, each had some incident associated with it which we never forget, but which no longer have the same place which we once loved to call home. Father and mother have been carried from the home to the cemetery; sisters and brothers have gone out to homes of their own choosing, and the "Homestead" is to be only a memory. It has passed.

The Priest's Contribution.

A poor young Irish couple went to a priest to be married, and pleaded that they were very poor, and could not afford even the few silver coins for payment of the wedding fee. The priest insisted that the bride should have her fee, as he, too, was very poor. "Let me go home, Reverend Father," begged the girl, "and I will get the money." She soon returned with the amount required and the knot was duly tied. "Could any one now question our marriage?" Father he inquired. "Nobody," his daughter. "Not even your reverence," she replied. "Not even your reverence," he replied. "Here is the parson's ticket for your hat and overcoat, which I took from the vestry just now to pawn."

A bookkeeper's story.

A bookkeeper's story. A customer who asked the price of a number of articles which he appeared to have intended to purchase. "What does this run about?" asked the man, pointing to a fancy box of soap. "That's not run about," replied the stationery, "replied the exasperated shopman."

American Politeness.

New York girl, travelling in Montana: "The idea of calling this the 'Wild West'! Why, I never saw such politeness anywhere!" Cowboy: "We're always polite to ladies, ma'am." New York girl: "Oh, as for that, there is plenty of politeness everywhere. But I rather like the 'Wild West' in New York. The men behave so nicely to one another, but here they treat one another like gentlemen." Cowboy: "Yes, ma'am; they usually find it's safer."

Useless Training.

A youthful poacher was brought in to court for the sixth time charged with stealing game. His father, present awaiting the result anxiously, the magistrate determined to speak to him. "This boy of yours," he said, "has been charged so often, with poaching that I'm tired of seeing him here. Can't he be put to some use of seeing him here, sir?" said the father. "Then why don't you teach him better? Show him the right way, and then he won't be coming here." "I have showed him the right way," was the reply. "But your young fool's got no talent. He always gets caught!"

Pride's Downfall.

A loudly-dressed young man stepped into a gentleman's outfitting establishment and in an imperious tone uttered the one word, "Neckties."

The jaded assistant displayed the latest patterns, but the youth, after glancing at them in a supercilious manner, haughtily said: "These."

The assistant brought other ties. "These," he said very politely, "are excellent quality ties, but they are not the ones the customer sampled haughtily. 'Do I look like a man who would wear a baillif's tie? Is there anything about me to indicate that?' he began your friend," meekly replied the assistant. "The sixpenny counter is at the other end of the shop."

A Legal Decision.

There was a man about 14—the judge was asleep. The embarrassed barrister, who had reached the telling point of his argument, spoke in a higher key, and then raised his voice to its loudest pitch. But the judge slept on. The court officers were blind to the young barrister's hints. At length, in desperation, he turned to the opposing counsel. "Now you see the delicate situation I am in, and there's only one way out. Unfortunately I haven't any books with me, but if you don't object I am going to knock over that pile of yours."

With a well-directed blow the young barrister knocked the books, and they went down with a terrific crash. Just before his astonished brother leaped to his feet and exclaimed, "But I do most emphatically object!" Then the judge, without raising his head from the book, said he had been occupying for the last ten minutes, replied with his wonted dignity. "Objection overruled!"

A LITTLE NONSENSE NOW AND THEN

After considerable difficulty we have secured the services of a gentleman who has promised to edit a column for us weekly, to be devoted to a "little nonsense and now and then" in this list will make him a welcome contributor to The News.

Why are weary perasas like carriage wheels? Because they are tired.

Wife, after a removal: I wish this cabinet was velvet. Husband: I don't. I wish it was down!

"Would you sell Smith an optimist?" "Well, he's an optimist in hoping for the best, but a good deal of a pessimist in voting for it."

"Lucky at cards, unlucky at love, you know." "Yes, I first met my wife at a progressive whist-party, where I won the first prize."

"You give me short weight for my money?" expostulated a customer to his butcher. "And you give 'me a long wait for mine," replied the butcher.

"I hear your friend Mills was injured while working in his automobile." "Yes, but the doctor thinks he'll make a speedy recovery." "No doubt of it! He always was a fast young man."

George: Do you think the difference between cannibals and other folk? Father: Cannibals, my son, eat their enemies; other people generally go no further than to live on their relatives and friends.

"Anthony, did you tie that tin-can to the dog's tail?" "Yes, mother. As a punishment for not doing his duty every day. That dog chases every rabbit he sees in our country, lands, and tied the tin can to his tail, he will make a noise and warn the rabbit."

Halton: By the way, old man, do you remember borrowing five pounds from me six months ago? Reacham: Yes, Halton. You said you were passing it for a short time. Reacham: And told you the truth; I didn't keep it twenty minutes.

Stanley: I say, old boy, I have been requested to ask you to join our society for the Consideration of Cosmic Forces. Cawson: That sounds terrifically out of the object of your society? Stanley: I don't quite know. I suppose to give a banquet every now and then.

"There is this fact," said Jones, after long silence and a long look at a man's superiority over a woman. "At least there is one good, sweet, and perfect thing given to man which a woman cannot have. Never! I deny it! What do you mean?" "A wife."

"I notice you advertise that you will give your own piece," said a stout old gentleman to the manager of a restaurant in which he had just dined. "You mean you will offer a suggestion?" "Certainly, sir," replied the manager. "Well, let me suggest one. I suggest that you should give me a piece of your own."

A bookkeeper's story.

A bookkeeper's story. A customer who asked the price of a number of articles which he appeared to have intended to purchase. "What does this run about?" asked the man, pointing to a fancy box of soap. "That's not run about," replied the stationery, "replied the exasperated shopman."

American Politeness.

New York girl, travelling in Montana: "The idea of calling this the 'Wild West'! Why, I never saw such politeness anywhere!" Cowboy: "We're always polite to ladies, ma'am." New York girl: "Oh, as for that, there is plenty of politeness everywhere. But I rather like the 'Wild West' in New York. The men behave so nicely to one another, but here they treat one another like gentlemen." Cowboy: "Yes, ma'am; they usually find it's safer."

CONSERVATIVE GET-TOGETHER CONFERENCE

Supporters of Federal Conservative Party Calls Convention for Toronto in May.

Ottawa, April 15.—Announcement that the supporters of the Federal Conservative party intend to hold a Dominion-wide conference around the month of next month was made tonight by Hon. Robert Rogers, former minister of public works in the Borden government. Interviewed by the Canadian Press, Mr. Rogers stated that all arrangements had been completed for a great get-together movement.

"During the last few months," said the ex-minister, "Liberal-Conservative organizations in different provinces have been discussing the advisability of a Dominion-wide organization such as we had in 1911. This discussion has borne fruit. It has been decided to hold a round-table conference in Toronto on or about the tenth of May next. The delegates to this conference will be selected from the duly organized ranks of the Liberal-Conservative party in all the provinces of Canada. It will be a national conference of the moving spirits of the Liberal-Conservative party. It will have the advantage of conciseness and may be expected to transact business with dispatch."

"It is perhaps too soon," continued Mr. Rogers, "to discuss policy, but in a general way it may be said that the policy that was good enough for Sir John Macdonald and Sir George Etienne Cartier is good enough for us. This policy which has always governed the actions of the Liberal-Conservative party we would concentrate upon in the hearts and minds of the Canadian people, bringing it up to date, of course, as Macdonald and Cartier would do if they were alive today and putting it abreast of the wonderful opportunities which present themselves to develop our tremendous natural resources."

SOME OF THE MARVELS OF SOAP BUBBLES.

In blowing soap bubbles it has been observed that just before the bubble bursts round dark spots appear upon its surface. On looking closely it is seen that within their circumference other and still darker spots appear. Newton first directed attention to these.

Prof. J. Perrin has been studying these spots under a powerful microscope and has made some fascinatingly interesting discoveries that are described fully in the Scientific American.

One of the most curious facts discovered by Perrin is the method by which a film of soap water over a wire is stretched and held together under the microscope. He found that in using soap and water there were five spots one within the other, the spot in the centre being the thinnest. He was able to measure the thickness of these films by a complex process into which we need not go here, but he found that the thinnest film was five millimetres thick in other words, it would take more than five million such films piled upon each other to make an inch.

That the successive dark circles are strata, the thickness of each stratum being an exact multiple of the thickness of the whole film, is another of the facts which he has discovered. These strata he calls pellicles.

Emulsions of gamboge, colophony and other substances produce soap bubbles, and in some of these there are as many as forty pellicles or layers, instead of the five produced by soap.

Within the dark circles a cloud of minute shining droplets appears, analysed by Brownian movement, it is characteristic of the particles of gases and is familiar in the dance of dust motes in a sunbeam. These are droplets of water condensed upon the membrane. Their extreme viscosity proves that they are moving in the air but in the membrane without any friction and without any possible displacement in the direction perpendicular to the membrane. That is the movement is in two dimensions only.

The elementary leaflet into which mica can be split is only one molecule in thickness, but the elementary film of soap water is much thicker than a molecule. Prof. Perrin suggests that it may therefore be crystalline in structure.

By a series of very pretty experiments he proves that the surface film of a liquid is a monolayer, that is, a thin layer. In the case of soap water this is a layer of oleic acid with a thickness slightly less than two microns, or from one twelve millionth to one fifteen millionth of an inch.

As an experiment of crystallization, he has shown that a snow cone conducted by Mlle. Delmon, Professor of Chemistry at Buenos Ayres, demonstrated that the whole of the solution is contained between two layers of oleic acid, each layer formed of two layers of molecules and about two millimetres thick.

MOOSE JAW HAS WORST BLIZZARD OF THE SEASON.

Moose Jaw, April 15.—Citizens were forced to walk to business this morning as the result of the worst blizzard of the whole season. Snow continued to fall late last night and, being accompanied by a high wind, it did not long before the streets were service was stalled. Snow fell at night, and this morning on the level it is from six to twelve inches deep, while on the drifts it reaches many feet. The snow plows on the street car line can make little headway owing to the wet nature of the snow.

Regular street traffic is almost at a standstill, whilst pedestrians are at a laborious task to get to their offices and stores.

In the outskirts the full fury of the storm was felt and many houses were absolutely snowed in, while it was almost impossible for children to go to school owing to the deep drifts which in places were higher than themselves.

SNOW AT CALGARY.

Calgary, April 15.—The weather is all local. Snow fell during the night, and in Calgary district the day's snowing operations at least another day. It will be nearly a fortnight before seeding can be begun in Central and Northern Alberta.

SLEET AT SASKATOON.

Saskatoon, April 15.—Two inches of sleet fell last night, followed by a light sleet this morning. Temperature is rising.

FREE OF TERRIBLE KIDNEY TROUBLE

After Three Years of Suffering, "FRUIT-A-LIVES" Brought Relief

"For three years, I was ill and exhausted and I suffered constantly from Kidney Trouble and Liver Disease. My health was miserable and nothing in the way of medicine did me any good. Then I started to use 'Fruit-a-lives' and the effect was remarkable."

I began to improve immediately and the wonderful fruit medicine soon restored me to health. All the old pains, headaches, indigestion and constipation were relieved and once more I was well.

To all who suffer from Indigestion, Constipation, Rheumatic Pains, Great Fatigue, I advise the use of 'Fruit-a-lives.'

Buy Life Insurance
Now! Why?

EVERYONE who is not a profiteer
deplores the high cost of living.

The high cost of living however means that for the present, money is of small value.

All authorities are agreed that gradually normal prices will be restored.

As soon as the supply exceeds the demand prices will begin to fall.

What has this to do with life insurance?
Everything.

If you have funds on hand to-day invest them in life insurance. This is the day of "cheap money." By the time your policies mature, it is practically certain money will have greatly increased in value and you will receive, for your cheap money, currency that will doubtless have a greatly increased purchasing power.

There are many other reasons for buying a policy to-day. No other investment is safer and more certain of satisfactory returns. Think it over—now.

Decide now—to increase
your insurance—now!

THE MILKING MACHINE.

The man who works on the farm
and in the dairy accomplishes a lot more than he did in the days gone by.
Times have changed; working conditions have changed; and these conditions have been brought about by the application of machinery on the modern farm.

We are living in an age of progress.
Most of us have discarded old, inefficient methods. Slower methods have given way to the modern automobile and tractor. Motor trucks are taking the place of horse and wagon.
Gasoline and electric power do the pumping on the farm. Cream separators have taken the place of hand skimming—and all because modern methods are better, quicker and accomplish better results.

Now comes the perfected milking machine. The slow, laborious method of hand-milking is passing. The day is coming and coming soon, when every dairymen with ten or more cows will do his milking by machine.
Young men who do the work in our dairies should learn themselves of the advantages of the milking machine
and acquaint themselves with its operation.

Some of the manufacturers of milking machines publish interesting material on construction, operation and operation of the mechanical milking machines. The DeLaval Separator Company, 165 Broadway, New York, has several books which are gladly sent to those who desire to learn how to operate a milking, or to familiarize themselves with milking machine construction.

EIGHT HOURS ON THE FARM.

Newton Wesley Rowell, the peerless leader of uplift, made it quite clear in the debates on Monday that the proposed Federal eight-hour law does not apply to farmers. Why, it was specifically mentioned in the Act that it did not. Nothing could be plainer.

But N. W. did not seem to realize the attitude of the farmer. He would have on the farms of this country as a result of this exclusion. It would drain the farms of still more of the scanty supply of help. Better of
to bring all farms under the operation of the law—let the consumers
suffer for the work of their Government at Ottawa, until they learn to put really representative men there.

THE OLD-FASHIONED BOY

Oh, for a glimpse of a natural boy
With a boy with a freckled face,
With forehead white "teeth tangled hair,"
And limbs devoid of grace.

Whose feet too in white his elbows
flay;
Whose knees are patched always;
Who turns as red as a lobster when
You give him a word of praise.

A boy who's born with an appetite,
Who seeks the pantry shelf
To eat his "pieces" with, resounding smack,
Who licks good on himself.

A "Robinson Crusoe" reading boy, Whose pockets bulge out with trash,
Who knows the use of a rod and a
fry.

And where the brook trout splash.
It's true, he'll sit in the easiest chair,
With his hat on his tumbled hair;
That his hands and feet are everywhere.

For youth must have room to spread.
But he doesn't dub his father "old man."

Nor deny his mother's call,
Nor ridicule what his elders say.
Or think that he knows it all.

A rough and wholesome natural boy—
Of good old-fashioned clay—
God bless him if he is still on earth.
For he'll make a man some day.

IDLE THOUGHTS OF
A BUSY FARMER

We understand the Clerk of the Weather has decided this year to eliminate spring and take us from winter direct to summer. If the weather in Alberta continues as has for the last six months we may soon hear it said of the province, as
was written in his countryman's paper of Bombay, "The climate of Bombay is so bad that the inhabitants live elsewhere." This was written on the 5th April when we entered on our seventh month of winter for this season.

When a movie is O.K. it is passed by the censor; but when it is not, it is censored by Detective Scott. "They said, 'Mr. Benson very old?'" "No, dear, why do you ask?" "I think he must be," I heard Pa say last night
he raised his head and sneezed.

Judge Mahaffy: "Did I understand
you to say that the parties used high words?" Detective Scott: "They were pitched rather high, sir, but the words used were extremely low."

Dad Kidwell says, "The joy of going to the movies is seeing so many pictures of the pictures of the pictures
and not saying a word you can hear."

Barister Jones was telling of his travels and adventures in many strange lands. Speaking of India, he recounted that when he saw the first man-eating tiger. "Why, that's nothing," chimed in Lawyer Russell,
"I've seen a tiger in Canada. I have seen a man eating rabbit."

The present financial situation gives us the old adage that exchange is not robbery.

Deep sympathy is felt for the Straw man who asked the judge for a separation order because his wife chased him with a hatchet every day. It is too often.

Advertisement in "Alberta Advocate":
"I have been instructed by the illage council, to enforce the ordinance against chickens running large and riding bicycles on the sidewalk." Some of those bicycling chickens
would be a great attraction at the Red Deer Fair.

Lordy (who has given beggar shillings): "Don't imagine I believe in you; I only give you this because I like giving." Beggar: "Well, make up a crock, lordy, and thoroughly enjoy yourself."

A postcard bearing the following is sent out from Detroit, signed by Looles Lessinski, and a hundred others, mostly American citizens.
Appeal to the National Democratic Party: "We, the members of the States right and personal liberty
wing of the National Democratic party,
so ably represented by Governor Edwards, of New Jersey, view with alarm the rapid depletion of the through long terms in the Canadian jails, and we earnestly and solemnly appeal to the leaders of the National Democratic party to help stay the tide of our members to Canada and the Canadian jails by immediately issuing a promise to restore the open saloon in the United States at the earliest possible date."

President Wilson has stigmatized
the French government as "militaristic."
The U.S. Senate has declared
out for the independence of Ireland;
it is now only left for the House of Representatives to pass a vote of condemnation in Germany.

Mr. Cregar on the stump was a fire-eating anti-protectionist, but "what an alteration in the morning." He isn't so rampant now in the House.
Also dear little McKenzie King has succeeded in representing his noble rage against the tariff. Whence this "Whyness?" Well, some of their supporters in the House have taken occasion to let it be known that they are not bigoted against protection.
In fact they go so far as to intimate that their leaning is more to protection than free trade. It is very nice full the western farm with free trade talk and so secure his vote, but East is East and West is West. At present there is more talk than West
at Ottawa, and it takes careful sailing and nice tacking to trim the sails to the different winds so that the anti and the pro will both be satisfied.

CADET DRILL
SYSTEM FINDS
INCREASED FAVOR

Parents Whose Sons Have Had Advantage of Such Courses are Enthusiastic in Endorsing Them.
Physical, Mental and Moral Training
are Improved by Cadet Training.

That cadet drills should be introduced into Canadian schools is recognized by every parent in Canada who has had sons at the Royal Military College, and every man who has met boys before and after their course
in the extraordinary improvement in health, strength, stature and physique which has followed that course.

There are some Canadians who object to the introduction of cadet drill into Canadian schools because they think that it develops a spirit of militarism, but experience has prevented that the view is incorrect. The boys think only of the immediate effort, the immediate discipline, and the immediate enjoyment, and not of any ultimate and distant possibility.
The cadet system is a rational substitute for conscription. It avoids all the evils of conscription, and it develops the best elements of human power and character, while at the same time it secures all the supposed advantages of conscription in a more natural and the most thoroughly effective way.

There is no logical basis for good citizenship but the one that recognizes a man's duties to his country.
There is no proper system of training in citizenship that does not make all children—girls as well as boys—conscious of their responsibilities to individual units in their country. Boys should be trained to use their influence to avoid war; but the fundamental principle is that they are liable by law to give their services to defend their country when necessary in return for the privileges they enjoy as citizens.

The advocates of a cadet system do not wish any change in the law which makes every man responsible for the defence of his country. They do however regard it as a grievous mistake
to make all men within these age limits liable for military service, as the law now does, without providing in some way for their training in order that they may be able to render efficient service without the terrible sacrifice of life that would naturally result from the vain attempts of masses of untrained men to perform

the duty required of them.

The cadet system has many merits
from the national standpoint, for it is given at a time when lessons learned by operative processes are never forgotten; it qualifies the men of the train the coming citizen in the schools
in no other way; it interferences
with the ordinary duties of men less than any other possible plan to have the foundation of military drill given in the schools; it qualifies the men of the country for more complete military training in much shorter time than it would take to train them
without cadet training in the schools.

Boys like military drill; any possible
objection to the Cadet Corps applies with equal force to Boy or Girl Scouts.
Cadet training has many advantages for it provides an excellent exercise for boys, physically. Besides being good for the general physical development of the boy, the drill has better effects, for it gives him a dignified bearing, a more graceful carriage of the body and a more definite step. It trains boys to be promptly, definitely, intelligently and cheerfully obedient. There is no other school process that develops
these types of obedience in a boy's character as naturally, so effectively
and so permanently as drill.

It also reveals law to a boy—not as a restraining force merely, but as a guiding force, by enabling him to achieve much more perfect results
under law than he could possibly achieve against law. It develops a boy's patriotism, gives him genuine faith in himself and his country, and reviving to him his value as a citizen, not merely in defence of his country, but in the highest development of his country in all departments of national life.

Drill trains a boy to be careful of his language and manners, and of his neatness and cleanliness in his clothing and person, and this develops a conscious personal dignity which is an important element in character.

That our system of government is democratic quadruples the force of arguments in favor of military drill in schools; for the system tends to a disregard for authority, a due response in itself intrinsically desirable, in itself intrinsically valuable, and subjectively quite apart
from any outbreak of war, or any need for arguments in favor of military drill
it is not discredited or rendered useless through the laud and worst occasion, for it never arises.

WHY IS IT

that chronic skin diseases which have defied all other treatments
yield to Zam-Buk?

It is because Zam-Buk is germicidal, and also has such power of penetration that it reaches disease
in the underlying tissues and cures from the "root" up. That is the only way a permanent cure can be effected.

Mr. H. C. Buckley of 461 E. Broadway, Portland, Oregon, says: "For chronic skin diseases there is nothing like Zam-Buk. For fifteen years I had eczema, and I tried an endless number of so-called 'eczema cures,' but nothing was capable of curing me permanently until I used Zam-Buk. Ten months' use of Zam-
Buk has effected a complete cure."
For ulcers, abscesses, boils, ringworm, blood-poisoning, pinta, burns, scalds and cuts, Zam-Buk is equally good. All dealers or Zam-Buk Co.,

PROMOTING PURE BRED CATTLE

The livestock men of Alberta
have adopted a novel means of promoting their industry, and, incidentally, of bringing to the notice of the people both within and without the province, the standing of Alberta as a livestock country.

Thirteen of the largest breeders have donated thirteen steers, mostly purebreds, to the University Farm
without any charge whatsoever.
These steers represent the cream of twenty-four breeders of leading herds, and constitute what is thought to be the finest selection of kind owned by any institution in Canada.

During the past a number of grade steers had been bought from time to time by the University Farm for advertising at the exhibitions, and the College of Agriculture. The best of these were shown at the local exhibitions, and the University Farm was able to get the best of the results, as it entailed going to the larger breeders and paying top prices for the selected animals. It was in all probability the breeders would not care to dispose of the animals at the local exhibitions, and it was felt that this work could be made more valuable to the province at large if the best of the breeders were to donate the animals of higher merits could be obtained. In any case the cost of labor, feed and housing would be the same.

To Professor A. A. Dowell, Chief of the Department of Animal Industry of the University of Alberta, Canada has an inspiration, whereby the University was able to get the required animals without paying a cent for them, yet giving their owners a good return. It appears that there are a number of breeders
in the province of Alberta who are not in a position to do their own fitting and showing. Consequently their herds suffer from a lack of advertisement. The University has evolved a plan by which the breeders
in this position would get their herds advertised at the exhibitions, and the University Farm the desired class of animals.

The plan suggested was that the breeders donate five or six calves of the three leading beef breeds, and that the University use them for judging purposes for two seasons, and exhibit them at the International Live Stock Show at Chicago. Practically all of the steers represented the very best that

Alberta Stock Ranch: Purebred Calves for Alberta University Farm.

there is in Alberta.
The best two or three animals of each breed will be exhibited at the International Stock Show at Chicago next fall by the University.
The selection will be made by a committee appointed by each breed Association. All of the steers will be shown individually, and each will stand upon its own merits.

If the steers in this exhibit make a creditable showing in Chicago, it should prove a splendid advertisement for their breeders, as well as for best producers and farmers generally, not only in Alberta, but throughout Western Canada. On the other hand, it gives to the students of the College of Agriculture, the future breeders of the Province, absolutely the best class of live stock for their judging work.

The live stock breeders who have made it possible for the University to assemble these excellent animals
and from whose farms the selections were made are as follows: Shorthorns—The Hon. Duncan Marshall; Ole; Geo. E. Lane Company; High calves—Two pure bred shorthorn breeders—The Hon. J. H. McLeod, University Farm, Hereford, John Williams, S. M. McCee, John High-River, Curtis, Cattle Company,
Shepherd, J. McD. Davison, Coalbrook, W. Smith, Camrose, and Palm Bros., Mirror, Aberdeen.
A. E. Noad, Oles; C. H. Richardson,
Elberta; J. W. Smith, Camrose;
South; Canada Land Irrigation
Company, Medicine Hat; and J. D.
McGregor, Brandon, Man. The total number of calves including the two admitted from the University Farm is fifteen.
